

SWAT workshop was successful

The first capacity building workshop on SWAT modeling in Climarice was held from December 1st to 3rd December at the Indian Institute of Technology campus, Chennai.

03.12.10

The three day SWAT workshop was held at the Indian Institute of Technology campus, Chennai. Mr. Balaji, Associate Professor at IIT, Chennai, and Prof. Srinivasan, Texas Univ. were organizing the program under the Climarice project.

Participants from government agencies and several organisations expressed their interest to learn about the SWAT model and were excited about possible outcomes.

Pictures: SWAT workshop participants at the IIT campus in Chennai

A participant cited these expectations in terms of outcomes of the workshop:

"I hope this workshop will give a comprehensive idea about the tool so that it can be utilized in the Irrigation and CAD Department of Government of Andhra Pradesh for various applications related to assessment of demands, adequacy of supplies and decision making in terms of management of available resources, subject to taking account of all constraints both technical or otherwise in implementation of various irrigation schemes."

Executive Engineer from the Irrigation and CAD Department, Government of Andhra Pradesh